

Travis Everette, DREI—BIO

Business strategist and educator, Travis Everette (DREI) is actively involved at almost every conceivable level in the real estate field. Having founded a thriving real estate brokerage of over 120 agents as well as a highly successful real estate school, his experience in the field and his dynamic mentoring skills are the centerpiece of his presentation style. Awarded many times over for sales and office growth, named North Carolina Real Estate Educator of the Year, and supported by legions of professionals who seek his guidance, Travis will deliver courses that pack a punch.

His philosophy is quite simple... help students break through their barriers through inspired defiance. He provides relatable content with a memorable energy and insightful observations on real life solutions to every day challenges. Students should be prepared to laugh, to learn, and to love their business as they leave with actionable strategic tools. Travis will focus his boundless energy the intent of helping attendees get out of their own way of achieving success.
